After deciding on the need to develop or improve a system, choosing the right approach to design and development will determine the long term success of the solution.

Almost everyone working in the world of computing will have encountered a development project that has failed to deliver what it intended to or has taken much longer to complete than expected. Often this comes about through the lack of a recognised approach or one that is inappropriate to the project.

Whether a small enhancement or large development project, BDS Solutions' Development Services always consider those who are defining the solution, those who will use it and ultimately those who will support and maintain it.

Our professional developers and support staff offer a full range of services, including:

- Requirements Analysis – working with the system's stakeholders, we will reveal the business, user, functional and quality requirements ensuring they are accurately specified.
- Design – logical designs identifying the elements of the solution and the technical designs conveying the physical nature of their implementation will be expressed in a way most suited to those needing to understand them.
- Architecture – our experienced solutions, database and technical architects will assess your operating environment and provide guidance as to the most suitable architecture for your solution.
- Development – supported by our quality management system, our Microsoft Certified Technology Specialists will deliver your software solution using the latest .NET technologies.
- Testing – in addition to designing and building solutions, BDS provides a comprehensive testing service. Our experienced test managers will define regimes to verify your solution including use of virtualisation to effectively model your environment.
- Training, Support & Maintenance – experienced in providing training for Microsoft server and desktop technologies, we can help you implement and establish your solution. Whether software supplied by BDS or a 3rd party, we can provide SLA bound support and maintenance tailored to your needs.

BDS Solutions understands development – the company was founded by developers who have worked in the NHS for over 20 years. BDS has delivered numerous customer projects and applications for National Health agencies as well as developing and supporting the Integrated Directory Service portfolio – the culmination of over a decade providing directory and messaging services to the NHS.

We are one of the most experienced suppliers of Microsoft technology working with the NHS and are committed to providing customers with the benefits that .NET brings. As an ISO9001 accredited Microsoft Gold Partner with IGSoc approved N3 connectivity, you can be assured of the highest standard of service from our Microsoft Certified Professional Developers.
